Feeding recommendations:

Gusto Whole Feed Wheat must be fed as part of a balanced diet (for any stock class) and is unsuitable as a complete feed. Consult with a nutritionist for more information about the use of Gusto Whole Feed Wheat for your stock class.

Important information about feeding grain to ruminant animals:

When feeding grain to ruminant animals for the first time, consult a nutritionist on how to best incorporate Gusto Whole Feed Wheat as part of balanced diet for your stock. Seek advice on appropriate feeding rates and a transition plan to avoid rumen acidosis.

Suitability of Gusto Whole Feed Wheat for different stock classes:

This information is of a general nature only and should not replace the advice of a qualified nutritionist.

Sheep, goats and deer:

Gusto Whole Feed Wheat is suitable for sheep, goats and deer as part of a balanced diet. Grain processing may improve nutrient utilisation and digestion. Always feed to stock with a physically effective fibre, such as good quality hay.

Poultry:

Unprocessed feed wheat can be fed to poultry as part of a balanced diet. Nutrient utilisation and digestion is improved by grain processing.
